

Week 7: PEER REVIEWER TEMPLATE

Peer Review Template
Assignment Content Possible Points = 90 Points	Excellent	Very Good	Satisfactory	Needs Improvement	Unsatisfactory	Peer Reviewer
	100%	91%	83%	50%	0%	Presenter
	15 Points	14 Points	12 Points	8 Points	0 Points	Reviewer
Disease & Background The student: 1. Identifies the disease condition 2. Gives a brief statement of incidence and prevalence in the US 3. The student briefly summarizes the disease pathophysiology 4. Identifies the typical clinical presentation seen in a patient with the disease (4 critical elements)	All 4 critical elements are present and complete	All 4 critical elements are present but some information may be only partially addressed or inaccurate.	3 critical elements are present.	2 critical elements are present	1 or less critical elements are present.	The presenter provided background and the respected pathophysiology of I and type II diabetes. A portion of the epidemiology, prevalence and incidence rates in the US. A good job of linking incidence rates to mentioning that an excellent job on clinical presentation of II diabetes.

Peer Review Template

	Excellent	Very Good	Satisfactory	Needs Improvement	Unsatisfactory	Peer Review
	100%	91%	83%	50%	0%	Presenter
	15 Points	14 Points	12 Points	8 Points	0 Points	Reviewer
Applicability in Primary Care The student: 1. Identifies the author, organization or group that developed the CPG 2. Student denotes the year of the original guideline publication 3. Student identifies any subsequent revisions (student's reference should be the most recent version), and 4. Student discusses the applicability for use of this CPG in the primary care setting (4 critical elements)	All 4 critical elements are present and complete.	All 4 critical elements are present but some information may be only partially addressed or inaccurate.	3 critical elements are present.	2 critical elements are present.	1 or less critical elements are present.	The presenter is information regarding original guideline case was 1988. were also included in December of identified the original was developed, CPG in a primary care setting stated and was goals of treatment