

- Question 1

Andrew is a 37 y/o male who comes to the clinic with the following symptoms: insomnia, feelings of worthlessness, and being easily fatigued. Given his symptoms the most likely diagnosis would be:

Selected
Answer: Minor depression

Answers: Major depression

Minor depression

Suicidal ideation

Anxiety

- Question 2

1 out of 1 points

Which vaccine is required at birth of a newborn?

Selected
Answer: Hepatitis B

Answers: Hepatitis A

Hepatitis B

DTAP

Tdap

- Question 3

1 out of 1 points

Andrew, a 41 y/o male resident of Oklahoma, presents to the clinic in July with the following symptoms: fever, chills, severe headache photophobia, and myalgia. He states that since his fever occurred 2 days ago, he now has this rash of petechiae on wrists, forearms, and ankles. The first line pharmacological treatment for Andrew would include:

Selected
Answer:

Doxycycline

Answers:

Chloramphenicol

Doxycycline

Ampicillin

Penicillin

- Question 4

1 out of 1 points

Jane is a 57 y/o female whose husband of 35 years just passed away in the past 6 months. Jane comes to the clinic and says: "I cry all the time. I can't sleep, I have no energy, I have lost 20 pounds in the past 2 months, and I get easily agitated. What's wrong with me?"

Selected
Answer:

Major depression

Answers:

Anxiety

Minor depression

Major depression

None of the above

- Question 5

0 out of 1 points

Ann is a primigravida in her 35th week of pregnancy and presents to the clinic with severe recurrent headaches, blurred vision, pitting edema, and right upper quadrant pain. Additionally, she has oliguria, nausea, and vomiting. Her urine protein is >1+. Her most likely diagnosis is:

Selected
Answer:

Hemolysis, elevated liver enzymes, and low platelets (HELLP)

syndrome

Answers:

Placenta previa

Hemolysis, elevated liver enzymes, and low platelets (HELLP) syndrome

Placental abruption

Severe preeclampsia

- Question 6

1 out of 1 points

Jay is a 72 y/o male who comes to the clinic with the following chief complaint: "I have been feeling very tired recently and having trouble breathing when I go upstairs. I noticed that my ankles and feet are swollen and I have been putting on weight." The most likely diagnosis for this patient is:

Selected

Answer:

Congestive heart failure (CHF)

Answers:

Acute myocardial infarction (AMI)

Infective endocarditis

Congestive heart failure (CHF)

Dissecting abdominal aortic aneurysm (AAA)

- Question 7

1 out of 1 points

Adela is a 38 y/o overweight female who presents to the clinic with RUQ pain that occurs approximately 1 hour after eating a fatty meal. The most likely diagnosis for Adela is:

Selected

Answer:

Acute cholecystitis

Answers: