

QUESTION 1

The most common type of suture used for interrupted sutures in the skin is:

Vicryl

Silk

Gut

Nylon

QUESTION 2

The following area(s) are not recommended for cryosurgery:

Areas where hair loss is critical to the patient

Anywhere on the face

Over superficial cutaneous neves

a and c

a, b, and c

QUESTION 3

If recurrent growth of the toenail with resulting pain or infection occurs, permanent ablation of the germinal tissue is recommended.

True

False

QUESTION 4

A rare complication of joint injections is introduction of infection into the joint space. What is the most common bacteria that grows?

Streptococcus